

DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH MEXICO RESUMED TODAY

Venustiano Carranza Will Be Recognized as Head of Government Today, After Nearly Three Years of Broken Relations Between Southern Republic and Other Countries.

PAN-AMERICAN CONFERENCE TAKES ACTION

Each South American Nation and This Country Will Address to Chief a Letter of Recognition, to Be Delivered in Person by Eliseo Arredondo, Cousin of De Facto Executive—Fifth Meeting Completes Business.

By The Associated Press.
Washington, Oct. 18.—Diplomatic relations between the United States and Mexico will be formally renewed tomorrow after a lapse of two years and eight months by the formal recognition of Venustiano Carranza as the chief executive of the de facto government of Mexico.

Secretary Lansing and the ambassadors from Brazil, Chile and Argentina and the ministers from Bolivia, Uruguay and Guatemala, constituting the Pan-American conference on Mexican affairs, met today and decided upon the form in which their respective governments would present recognition and fixed tomorrow as the time for the act. After Secretary Lansing made this announcement:

"The conferees, under instructions from their several governments, will recognize the de facto government of Mexico, of which General Carranza is the chief executive, tomorrow. Each government will address to General Carranza a letter or note of recognition to be delivered to Eliseo Arredondo, personal representative of General Carranza here. Mr. Arredondo, who is a first cousin of Mr. Carranza, will leave here Wednesday or Thursday to convey in person the letters of recognition from the several governments.

With the decision on the form of recognition, the Pan-American conference on Mexican affairs closed today. Five meetings in all have been held, the first two being devoted to framing an appeal to the contending Mexican factions to reach an agreement on their internal affairs. In view of the failure of the important elements to agree, the conference decided that recognition should be accorded to the strongest faction.

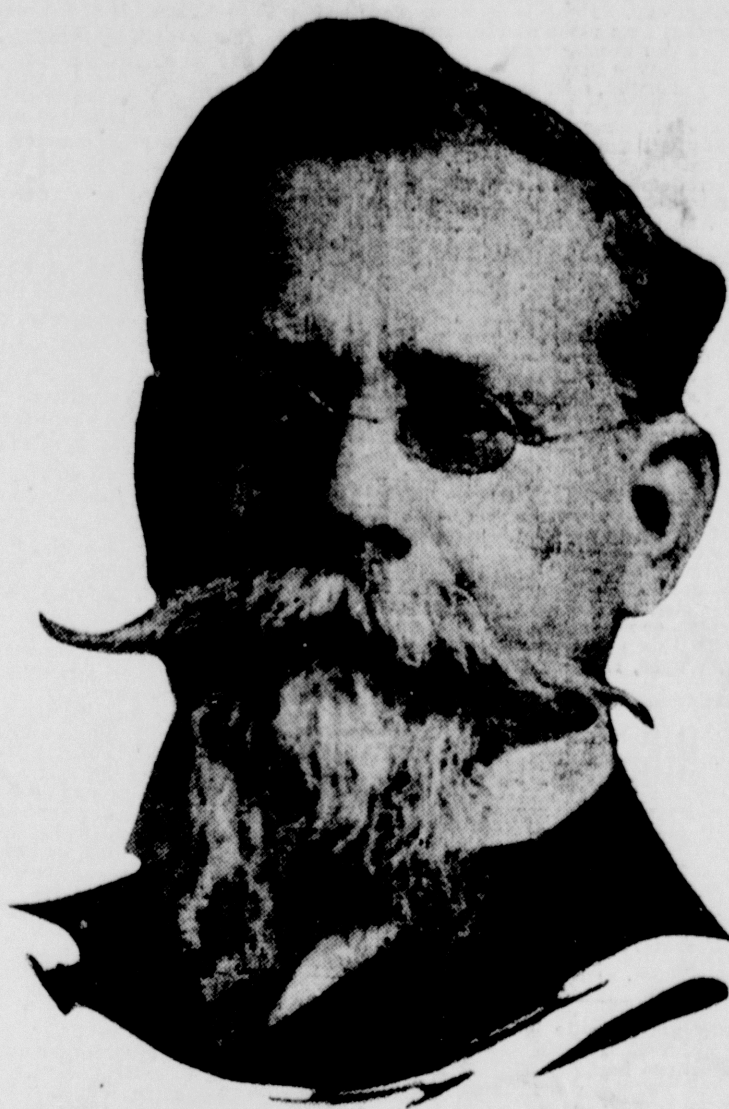

Since recognition was agreed upon a week ago official reports show that a material change for the better has taken place in Mexico; that railroad and telegraph lines are being rapidly repaired and that conditions are fast becoming normal in many places. Thousands of troops hitherto under General Villa have taken advantage of the offer of amnesty and laid down their arms, and Secretary Lansing and the Pan-American diplomats feel that a fair start has been made toward restoration of peace and reconstruction, the success of which depends now upon the administrative ability of Carranza and his advisors. Assurances have been given by Carranza that foreigners will be protected in their lives and property; that claims will be paid; that amnesty will be given to political enemies who swear their allegiance to the new government, and that there will be no persecutions of the clergy. The American government is hopeful that these promises will be fulfilled.

Arredondo Assures Lansing.
Mr. Arredondo, who is to be either minister of foreign relations or the new Mexican ambassador to the United States, has told Secretary Lansing confidently that all promises will be fulfilled.

The decision to refer to General Carranza as "the chief executive of the de facto government of Mexico"

TO BE MEXICO'S RECOGNIZED HEAD

After the passage of nearly three years, during which time no government was recognized in Mexico, Venustiano Carranza's government is to be formally allowed diplomatic relations by the United States and South American governments today.

SIR IAN HAMILTON IS RECALLED FROM THE DARDANELLES

By The Associated Press.
London, Oct. 19, 12:10 A. M.—Major General Charles Carmichael Monro has been appointed to command the Dardanelles expedition in succession to Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton, who is returning to England to make a report. This announcement is made by the war office.

That all has not been going well with the expeditionary forces sent to the Gallipoli peninsula to open the way to Constantinople had been indicated not only by the official reports but by intimation in high quarters in London. A few days ago in the British parliament Viscount Milner suggested the withdrawal of the troops from Gallipoli and their transfer to some other theatre of the war.

In reply Lord Lansdowne said it was impossible for any member of the government to give an intimation that the troops would be continued in the Dardanelles operations or withdrawn from them.

Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton, who has had command of the British troops from the time of their first landing in April, 1915, in his reports to the war office chronicled very heavy losses to his forces with comparatively small gains. The result of this has been to arouse discussion as to whether the operations in the Dardanelles were proceeding in a way to warrant their continuation.

Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton is one of the veteran fighters of the British army, having seen service in the Afghan war in 1878, the Boer war of 1881, the Nile expedition, various campaigns in Africa and the South African war in which he was chief of staff to Lord Kitchener. He is 62 years of age.

M. K. & T. and Frisco Traffic Interrupted Because of Flood

Fort Worth, Texas, Oct. 18.—Because of flood conditions in Oklahoma, traffic between Fort Worth and Kansas City over the M. K. & T. and Frisco lines continues interrupted and trains are being detained by way of Oklahoma City. The Wichita Falls and Northwestern and the Altus and Wellington roads also have suffered from the floodwaters.

Deputy Sheriffs Arrest Tom Shelton on Robbery Charge

Tom Shelton, charged with robbery with fire arms, was arrested yesterday morning by Deputy Sheriffs Lee Jenkins and Wallace Grimm after a search of four months. Shelton is charged with having induced W. W. Alston of Harrison Switch, to let him ride down the Texas Central tracks in East Waco and to have then held Alston up at the point of a revolver and robbed him of about $30, all he had with him. Sheriff Fleming and his deputies are very much pleased at having caught Shelton, who has managed to keep out of their hands all this time.

SIR EDWARD CARSON RESIGNS FROM THE BRITISH CABINET

By The Associated Press.
London, Oct. 18.—Sir Edward Carson, attorney general, has resigned from the British cabinet.

The resignation of Sir Edward Carson, the first open manifestation of the divergence of views known to exist among the ministers, is the result, according to an authoritative statement, not of the controversy over conscription, but of the condition of affairs in the near East.

Sir Edward himself so far has made no personal explanation of his reason for resigning, but it is understood that he disapproved of the policy which is being followed in the Balkans and the method of confining the whole national policy to a small "inner cabinet."

It is expected that there will be exciting debates in the house of commons this week as severe attacks on the government are planned by members of the house in connection with the general military policy, especially in the near East.

NEARLY A BILLION FOR DEFENSE NOW WILSON'S PLAN

PROGRAM OF SIX YEARS WILL BE LAID BEFORE THE PEOPLE BY PRESIDENT IN HIS SPEECH AT MANHATTAN CLUB, NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 4.

$26,000,000 FOR THE ARMY

By 1925 U. S. Will Have First Line of Dreadnoughts and Battle Cruisers Numbering 43—Fleet of Coast Defense Submarines With Almost a Solid Line of Defense.

By The Associated Press.
Washington, Oct. 18.—A national defense program that probably means an expenditure on the army and navy of upwards of a billion dollars in the next six years, will be laid before the people by President Wilson November 4th, when he goes to New York to make his first public address since the signing of the policy upon which his administration has embarked became known.

He will speak before the Manhattan club of New York of national defense and the reasons that have impelled him to approve plans to about double the navy and quadruple the trained fighting forces ashore within a few years.

With the estimates of the war and navy departments submitted for the coming year, the breadth of the administration's policy as to preparedness is being realized. It shapes up in totals as follows:

Navy—for new ships and increased personnel in five years, $60,000,000. Army—for reserve material (arms and ammunition) within four years, $105,000,000.

For new coast defenses and modernization of old forts within four years, $10,000,000.

For the new continental army and the proposed increase in the regular army, $26,000,000. (This amount probably will be a continuing, and if any, increasing appropriation during the first six year period which would make the total expenditure at that time $156,000,000.)

Grand Total $44,000,000.
The grand total expenditure thus actually planned would be $44,000,000,000.

According to plans laid out by experts of the navy and war departments, these expenditures would provide by 1925 a first line of dreadnoughts and battle cruisers numbering forty-three; a fleet of coast defense submarines, that would fringe the Atlantic and Pacific coasts with an almost solid line of defense against attack; a fleet of nearly 175 destroyers and squadrons of huge seagoing fleet submarines to operate with the battle squadrons at great distance from shore.

For the army there would be at the end of six years a trained force of 1,200,000 men, including a regular army of 140,000 and the proposed militia army and reserve, a ring of fully manned coast defenses, equipped with the largest and most powerful guns yet built, and a vast reserve of field guns, machine guns, howitzers and big gun ammunition.

In addition the enormously increased capacity of private munition plants would give assurances of ample supplies of small arms and field gun ammunition.

The definite step toward enlarging the navy was taken today when contracts were awarded for twenty-one of the fighting craft authorized by the last congress. They are six big cruisers, thirty-knot boats, each to carry twenty tubes, four 4-inch guns and two 3-inch anti-aircraft guns and sixteen coast defense submarines, each displacing more than 550 tons and each equipped with a 30-inch disappearing rifle. The surface fighting fleet day set a new record for the department in the number of contracts awarded.

Other Estimates Not Known.
Neither war nor navy department estimates for the coming year have been made public as yet in detail. It was learned today, however, of the $2,000,000 increase over last year's bill to be asked for by the war department; $46,000,000 would go toward reserve material and coast defense works, the remaining 125,000,000 being used in building up the new army, regular and continental. Part of this $46,000,000 would go into building and arming the new forts which will guard the entrance to Chesapeake bay.

It is proposed to spend more of the money in building new forts to guard New York, San Francisco and other great harbors from attack. Gigantic 16-inch rifles will be mounted in all these defenses of the first class where enemy craft with modern guns would be dangerous from great distance.

Another expenditure contemplated is for fitting the present 12 and 14-inch rifles with carriages that will give them greater range. Much already has been accomplished in this way and the work will be carried on until every fort is modernized. Number 16-inch rifles will be installed in place of smaller guns, however, it is said, because to make all the changes in machine guns, howitzers, and the like would be more expensive and less satisfactory than to build new emplacements for these huge weapons.

Electrical Experts to Meet.
By The Associated Press.
Chicago, Oct. 18.—Electrical experts and workers from all parts of the country began arriving in Chicago tonight for the eighth annual convention of the Association of Railway Electrical Engineers, which opens tomorrow and will continue for four days.

Wireless telephony and telegraph for train dispatching instead of the old system of hoists, machinery, and the like would be more expensive and less satisfactory than to build new emplacements for these huge weapons.

ALLEGED UNLAWFUL METHODS OF NEW HAVEN LAID BARE

Robert L. Batts, Government Counsel, Presents Startling Information Concerning Manipulations of Financiers to Secure Monopoly on Transportation in New England.

MAP SHOWS GROWTH OF THE SYSTEM

Before Jury an Explanation of How Competition Was Throttled Is Made—Alleged Juggling of Huge Sums To Avoid the Hand of the Law—Dummies Were Used, Says Attorney.

By The Associated Press.
New York, Oct. 18.—The alleged unlawful methods by which the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company is charged with having secured a monopolistic grip on the transportation traffic of New England were set forth to the jury today by Robert L. Batts, government counsel in opening the case of the government at the trial of William Rockefeller, Lewis Cass Ledyard and Edward D. Robbins and eight other past and present directors of the road for alleged conspiracy to violate the Sherman law.

Suits to force the foreclosure of the competing roads, secret acquisitions of stock, the incorporation of dummy companies for the sole purpose of concealing ownership of rail and steamship lines taken over, fictitious sales of securities in order to deceive the authorities of Massachusetts as to their actual ownership; the use of money to obtain control of a Boston newspaper and to secure favorable legislation; the sacrifice of millions of dollars of stockholders' money in acquiring competing companies; the burning of books and the transfer of records to Canada beyond the jurisdiction of the federal authorities—these were some of the acts alleged by the federal attorney as having been committed by the New Haven officials "with criminal intent and with full knowledge that they were unlawful."

Combination Grew Gradually.
Mr. Batts emphasized that had the New Haven combination been attained in the natural and legitimate growth of business it might not necessarily have come within the scope of monopolistic corporations which the Sherman law was intended to reach. But the law was designed not only to protect the public from the destruction of wealth by speculation, but to prevent the stockholders and the railroads themselves from becoming the victims of unfair methods. It was the method used by the New Haven in driving its competitors out of business, sacrificing the money of its stockholders and bringing about a situation "where every person doing business in New England, every enterprise was at the mercy of a powerful combination that the Sherman law was intended to punish."

All these offenses the attorney outlined in a general way, and then using a map showing the ten principal New England railroads that operated independently in 1890, traced one by one the history of the acquisition of the New Haven officials. He accused of having with other directors, now dead, secretly instituted a suit which forced one of these roads, the New York and New England, into a foreclosure.

J. P. Morgan & Co., he said, was used as a means of concealing the ownership of stock of the Old Colony Steamboat company at a time that the New Haven attempt to acquire it was being introduced into the Massachusetts authorities. The Morgan firm gave a note for the stock that bore no interest, he said, and kept it in their possession long enough for the president of the Old Colony railroad, then a subsidiary of the New Haven, to say that the railroad did not own it. The door of Edward D. Robbins, the former general counsel for the New Haven, the federal attorney, laid the alleged unlawful devising of schemes whereby the control of steamship companies could be secretly acquired.

Robbins Switches Big Sum.
Robbins, he said, made use in a single day of three banks and various dummy corporations and individuals as the vehicle for the switching back and forth of $1,500,000 used eventually in acquiring the Metropolitan Steamship company.

One of the individuals, he said, was Grover C. Richards of Portland, Maine, a 21-year-old plumber, brought to New York to act as treasurer of another Metropolitan steamship line used in the transaction and for which he received $5 a day and expenses.

In 1905 Charles F. Brooker, one of the defendants, called attention to the fact, said Mr. Batts, of the "danger" of the New Haven.

Brooker Is Manufacturer.
Charles F. Brooker is best known as a brass and copper manufacturer. He is president of the American Brass company, which operates large factories in Connecticut and is rated as many times a millionaire. He was born in Connecticut in 1847 and was a member of the legislature and was a member from Connecticut in 1900 and 1912 of the Republican National Committee. His home is in Ansonia, Conn. Resigned from the New Haven.

Charles M. Pratt is a multimillionaire of the industry, oil roads, with whom he was associated in the upbuilding of that company. He has never been especially active in railroad affairs. His home is in Brooklyn where he was born in 1855. He has devoted time and money to educational matters, is a trustee of the University of the City of New York, and is president of the Pratt Institute, Brooklyn. Resigned from the New Haven.

Edward D. Robbins of New Haven, who was general counsel for the company during the years most of the great mergers were completed, is considered one of the ablest corporate lawyers in New England. He held this position from 1906 to 1914, when he retired. Previously, he had been Connecticut counsel for

Eight Persons from Wreck Are Dragged Back Into Sea

By The Associated Press.
Point Arena, Cal., Oct. 18.—Seven men and two women who had fought their way onto Mal Pass Rocks after escaping today from the wrecked gasoline schooner Alliance No. 1 were dragged back into the sea by pursuing combers. Eight were swept to death. The ninth, Rafael Mediner, was flung into the surf. The ship's body washed overboard, came within his reach and he climbed into it. There he was found exhausted, hours later. Mediner was tossed upon the beach unconscious. When he revived he crawled up to a cliff road and was picked up by a farmer's wagon. The farmer telephoned to the Point Arena lifesaving station, but it was then four hours after the schooner had struck and too late to aid any of the victims except Jones.

Abila, the owner of the schooner, was said to be a close friend of Carranza and was taking the vessel to Mexico for use in Carranza's service.

WHERE POLITICS SHOULD NOT ENTER.

Governor Ferguson is treading upon dangerous ground if reports to the effect that he is going to employ the same methods in naming the next president of the University of Texas that he did in choosing the superintendents of the State Training School for Boys at Gatesville and the Southwestern Insane asylum at San Antonio are true.
We do not undertake to say that the men whom he succeeded, by bringing all the possible pressure and force of his office to bear, in having placed in charge of those institutions were not good men. That is not the issue. The principle involved is that such positions are not legitimate political prizes and that men of peculiar training and fitness for a position which they are occupying should not be displaced for the sake of making room for political favorites.

Few people who took time to calmly consider the matter of the governor's course in the cases mentioned thought he was pursuing the proper method, but inasmuch as the institutions are not ones having a strong hold on the affections of the people as a whole, no popular indignation was aroused. In the case of the University of Texas, however, in which every citizen of the state has a direct interest and a certain degree of pride, the case is different and it is generally conceded, we take it, that the center of our whole public educational system is the one institution in the state which practically all the people believe should be left entirely free from the corrupting influences of partisan politics.

We do not consider that it is within the province of the governor to say who shall be president of the university. The law provides that he shall name a certain number of the regents and fill vacancies that occur on that board, but when he has done that he has gone as far as the law contemplated he should go in determining the personnel of the corps of executives and instructors in the university. The university has had enough burdens to bear in the form of inadequate appropriations without saddling upon it the handicap of political interference.

In his campaign for governor Mr.
Ferguson made light of higher education. Whether this represented his real attitude or was done as a class appeal to that great body of uneducated voters in the state we do not know. But neither attitude would indicate any special aptitude for the selection of a president of our chief educational institution, and if Mr. Ferguson is contemplating any such course we hope he will reconsider and forego it, for he will in this way work such an injury to the great school as would more than offset the good effects of his approval of the very large appropriations. He can carry out his plan if he wants to,
of course, as we have seen in other cases, but he will encounter greater opposition in doing so than he did in the cases of the other institutions, and that opposition will be of longer duration and of more formidable character.

We wish to join our contemporary,
the Dallas News, in a protest over the repeated press yarns out of El Paso to the effect that Gen. Francisco Villa has been assassinated or executed. And we might protest, also, against the oft-recurring critical illness and death of Francis Joseph of Austria. If death is the horrible experience that we have been taught, it must be meting out an awful punishment upon these men to kill them every few days.

A POINTER FOR AMERICA.

Dispatches in yesterday's papers to the effect that plans had already been laid for the promotion of an aggressive trade campaign in South America, following the close of the war, serve to emphasize to American business interests the need of their doing something to secure at least a good portion of the trade of our neighbors to the South now while the opportunity is so favorable. Everything is in our favor if we act now by providing a merchant marine to transport the goods between the United States and South America, arrange more desirable and elastic banking relations between those countries and this, and cultivate the people of South America more in a political, social and business sense. Much of the trade with the various republics there would have been ours long ago, perhaps, had we gone after it as we should.

All indications point to a growing friendship for the United States on the part of the South American republics.
This was shown in a political way by their co-operation with this country in the study of the Mexican situation.
That they have cast off their suspicion of us, aroused, perhaps, by their belief that we regarded the Monroe Doctrine as a policy to be invoked only in our behalf, was indicated by the cordial manner in which the South and Central American governments co-operated in the Pan-American conference at Washington when various banking, trade and other economic questions were considered.

El Mercurio, a responsible Chilean newspaper, expresses the very heartiest good will for the people of this country and from persons who have returned from trips into South America recently we have the statement that public sentiment toward the United States has undergone a remarkable transformation, and all of it in our favor. This is attributed to the good reports of this country made by the delegates who have returned home from the Pan-American conference. If the delegates from those countries to the Pan-American conference can create such a good impression upon the native people, then surely a closer cultivation of the people on the part of North Americans would be quite worth while.
South Americans appear to recognize now that we are not harboring any selfish designs upon their territory in our defense of the Monroe Doctrine, and that we have no idea of territorial aggrandizement beyond the Rio Grande.

But we need to follow up this good will with practical results in the extension of our trade, for we as well as Germany will need to look after our foreign trade after the war is over and if our business interests are alive to their opportunity they will not wait until the war is ended to begin their operations to the South of us.

That President Wilson is not a stickler for precedents and customs is indicated in the fact that he did not wait until spring to turn his fancy to thoughts of love.

Now that the United States is on the eve of formally recognizing Carranza, our old friend, Vic Hurta, will probably thank us for postponing his entry into Mexico.

Press dispatches announce the closing of a large hotel for cats at St.
Louis. The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals should procure an injunction against any such procedure.

Reports from England are to the effect that more people die of heart failure at the sight of the Zeppelins than from bombs thrown by these German destroyers.

Chile has run out of crochets and knitting cotton and the prospect is that the men may have to go without socks and the women have nothing with which to occupy themselves of evenings.

If cottonseed continue to advance in price we will soon be raising the fleece staple for the seed rather than the lint. And it has not been so many years ago when we threw the seed away because we could find no use for them.

"The cackling of hens in the barn lot is better music than that furnished by the electric piano," informs the Temple Telegram. Evidently the Tele-gram's paragon is a farmer, or his sleep has been disturbed by the noise of his neighbor's musical instrument.

The United States Brewers' association announces a prize of $5,000 for the best essay on the solution of the saloon problem. We have no particular friendship for the brewers, but we will answer their question and not charge them a cent: "Put the saloons out of business."

Speaking of German efficiency, we see another illustration of it in the fact that General von Gallwitz is in charge of one of the forces being led against Serbia. If there are any two qualities needed in conducting a campaign in that region they are gall and the presence of one's wits.

Marlin Auto Party

Has Narrow Escape

Special to the Morning News.

Marlin, Texas, Oct. 18.—While returning from an auto drive about five miles out of this city yesterday afternoon, John Portele was the victim of an accident which, alarming at first, proved to cause slight injuries to the twelve riding ladies riding with him.
Miss Dorothy Yates and Miss Clarice Grusendorf each received bruises and Miss Yates a small gash on one limb.

The party got to within about a mile of town when they met an auto going in the opposite direction and in attempting to guide his car to the right, Portele found his brake had got hung and wouldn't work, causing the car to skid to the right toward a ditch. Just before overturning, the girls were thrown out.

Local Woodmen Will

Dress Up for Parade

Geysers City Camp No. 6 will be represented in the Woodmen parade at the Cotton Palace on Wednesday, November 18, by perhaps the largest section of members in uniform in the parade. The camp at its regular meeting last night decided to purchase at once seventy-five uniforms. S. J. Flood, T. H. Hart and J. J. Petty were named as a committee to obtain members to agree to march in the parade and wear the uniforms.

Rain at Mart.

Special to the Morning News.

Mart, Texas, Oct. 18.—A heavy rain fell here last night, beginning about 7:30 and continuing until this morning about 6:30. Besides setting the dust it will be of great benefit to the top crop of cotton.

OUR YOUNG WOMEN

are so often subject to headache—are languid, pale and nervous—because their blood is thin or insufficient. They are not really sick and hesitate to complain, but they lack that ambition and vivacity which is their birthright. They don't need drugs—but do need the tonic and nourishment in Scott's Emulsion that makes richer blood, fills hollow cheeks, suppresses nervousness and establishes strength. Nourishment alone makes blood and Scott's Emulsion is the essence of concentrated nourishment, free from wines, alcohols or opiates.

If mother or daughter is frail, pale or nervous, give her Scott's for one month and see the betterment. It has a wholesome, "nutty" flavor. Avoid substitutes. At any drug store.

RED PIMPLES

And Back. Itching and Burning. Much Loss of Sleep.

Hair Came Out.

HEALED BY CUTICURA
SOAP AND OINTMENT

"The first visible appearance of my trouble was the falling out of my hair, which came out when combed. The scalp then began to itch, and was irritated and covered with small, red pimples, which also appeared on the lower limbs, and on the small of my back. This caused a great deal of itching and a burning sensation, and much loss of sleep. My hair came out gradually and it became thin, lifeless and gray.

"I began to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The result was so satisfactory that I purchased more. I am now entirely healed." (Signed) R. E. L. Neil, 122 Logan

TRANSPORTATION TO BELL MEAD

Better Facilities to and from City for Katy Trainmen Before the Y.

M. B. L. Tonight.

Plans for securing transportation for

Katy trainmen to and from the yards at Bell Mead will be considered at the meeting of the Y. M. B. L. directors tonight. The special committee, appointed to confer with the general officials of the Katy system in regard to retaining the layover in Waco, will also make its report in connection with the transportation matter.

One of the most interesting, and it is hoped most pleasing, reports will be from the publicity committee, which started its work yesterday, raising funds to carry on the publicity campaign of the league. This has been a perplexing question for several administrations, as the money donated each month is not nearly enough to keep up the advertising planned.

Details of the street decorations for the Cotton Palace will be outlined by the civic improvement committee, which has arranged for the placing of bunting and flags on Franklin, Austin, Fourth and Eighth streets, and to follow the street car line to Cotton Palace park. Electrical illuminations will be carried out on a more gorgeous scale than ever before and a number of flood lights will throw their bright rays here and there over the city each night.

Other committees will also submit important reports and President W. W.
Naman urges that there be a full attendance of the directors.

THEATRES

AT THE REX.

"Blackbirds."

Laura Hope Crews, who plays the Queen of the Smugglers in the big Jesse L. Lasky production of the famous crook play, "Blackbirds," lost, during the taking of the picture, a valuable diamond brooch. Strange to say, Miss Crews did not suspect any of the band of supposed crooks, with which she was rehearsing, of the theft, but suspicion fell on the two policemen who were supposed to arrest the crooks.

Miss Crews missed the brooch when she put her hand to her throat during the scene. Rehearsal was at once stopped and a search made for the jewel, but without success. Giving the thing up as lost, Miss Crews resumed rehearsal. During the next few minutes the police raided the headquarters of the crooks and at the conclusion of the scene, Miss Crews again put her hand to her throat and found the pin back in place. She said nothing, no one else said anything, and the incident passed, but Miss Crews is convinced that among the police who arrested the stage crooks there must have been a real crook.

The Jesse L. Lasky picturization of "Blackbirds" is to be seen at the Rex today only. Miss Crews, on the speaking stage, starred in "Blackbirds" at the Lyceum theatre, New York, and it was by special arrangement that this play was secured for her second photo-dramatic appearance. As Leonie Sobatsky, queen of an international band of smugglers, she has even a better opportunity to show her wonderful art than in "The Fighting Hope." Just before joining the Lasky forces Miss Crews concluded an engagement under David Belasco's direction in "The Phantom Rival" in New York. Miss Crews is acknowledged one of the leading women dramatic stars in the country.

"The Miracle of Life."

Complete story of this master picture by the producers of "Damaged Goods" will appear on this page tomorrow.

"The Chorus Lady."

"The Chorus Lady," James Forbes' amusing and dramatic play, which has been a sensation of the American stage for years, and has been presented in practically every country in the civilized world, has been pictured with an all-star cast by the Jesse L. Lasky company. Attempts were made to secure this play by practically every motion picture company in the United States, until the author finally accepted the offer of the Lasky organization.

An especially selected all-star cast was secured to present this splendid comedy. Cleo Ridgely, the well-known star, who has appeared in the Lasky productions of "Stolen Goods," "The Puppet Crown," "The Secret Sin," "The Marriage of Kitty," and other plays, was decided upon as the proper artist to portray the character of Patricia O'Brien, the Chorus Lady. Marjorie Daw, the clever 14-year-old protegee of Geraldine Farrar, who scored such a success in support of Charlotte Walker, in the Lasky production of "Out of Darkness," will be seen as the younger and stage-struck sister, Nora. Wallace Reid, the distinguished young actor, who was secured by the Lasky company to appear as leading man for Geraldine Farrar, will be seen as "Danny," the young detective in love with Pat. The remainder of the large cast is composed of the principal members of the Lasky all-star stock company.

The play tells the story of the struggles of a keen-witted, clean-livered young girl of the chorus, to keep her young sister from falling into the clutches of a scheming man of the world. She saves her sister, only to lose the love of her young detective sweetheart. The wonderful charm and mystery of "behind the scenes" is said to cast a spell over the entire five reels of thrilling action.

"The Chorus Lady" is sure of being one of the most sensational successful plays ever presented on the screen. It will be shown first to Waco audiences the coming Friday and Saturday at the Rex.

HIPPODROME.

In "Tillie's Tomato Surprise," Marie Dressler's new six reel comedy, to be shown at the Hippodrome today only, Miss Dressler is knocked from pillow to post and comes up smiling all the time. The rule in the film, as far as tender Marie is concerned, was apparently the sadder Miss Dressler's attitude made the funnier it would seem to the audience, and while the audience is laughing at the chaps of the falls and pitfalls that open up to this huffy comedienne of fifty summers, and see how her spirits are utterly crushed, her courage gone, and when she seems to drift on the sea of life, it seems a pity that one should laugh at her. And yet people do laugh at her, hysterically, because she is a comedian of the first order.

Marie Dressler, as Tillie, in her new comedy has many troubles. With her little creature like her, still undeveloped with the world before her should have to wrestle with the details of a photograph, that she should have to think of play, that she should have to think of anything aside from ordering dinner and winter gowns is awful. The picture will show that fame has not been heavy upon Tillie's marble brow. She is the only comedian in captivity who has ever gotten away with a six reel movie comedy. This is her second spasmodic and edgy. She must have lost at least thirty ounces in weight since her appearance in "Tillie's Tomato Surprise," but the fact that she is still alive is the greatest surprise of all.

In "Tillie's Tomato Surprise," Miss Dressler makes her way carefully through a brick wall two feet thick, she is permitted to lay down flat upon the ground and let an eight cylinder car pass over her defenseless form. A dog and a monkey have the honor of being permitted to bite her. She is thrown out of windows, rescued from cruel waves. She is baked, fried and stewed, not the kind of stew you may think, hops on and off a fast moving train, has a sorghum molasses bath, follows her by a bath of loose white feathers which "Tillie's Tomato Surprise" is a suc-

Says Simple Laxative Better than Castor Oil

CASE OF CHRONIC CONSTIPATION YIELDS TO MILD LAXATIVE COMPOUND.

Writing from The House of the Good Shepherd, at Sunnyside Ave. and 50th St., Seattle, where she is the guest of her lifelong friend the Reverend Mother, Mrs. Mary Austin, widow of a wealthy San Franciscan, who lost everything in the fire in 1906, says she experienced speedy relief from the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and that she found this gentle, pleasant-tasting laxative more effective than several doses of castor oil.

The active principles of certain laxative herbs are combined in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to act on the eliminative organs in an easy, natural way, without griping or other discomfort. Its freedom from opiate or narcotic drug of every description, combined with its gentle action and positive effect, make it the ideal laxative for family use. Druggists everywhere sell it for fifty cents a bottle.

MRS. MARY AUSTIN

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should be in every home for use when the occasion arises. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. E. Caldwell, 454 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

At That, He Was Lucky; It Might Have Been Gold

"Plop!" something hit him on the top of the head.
"Lucky!" squawked Rastus.
"K-l-l-n-g!" it rang on the sidewalk.

"Mah goodness!" gasped Rastus. It was a silver dollar.
Another one rang on the pavement after bouncing off the turban of a woman passing by.

"Come heah, baby," gurgled Rastus as he tried to reach both at once. A half dollar slipped him on the back as he bent over. Others rang as they fell on the sidewalk and in the gutter around him.

It was raining silver.
No one saw a horrified face thrust for a moment out of a window high up in the Amicable building, then withdrawn hurriedly.
In a few seconds the street had resumed its normal rush.

But—
An agitated man sought the elevator landing at the fifteenth floor of the building and pressed the "down" button frantically. When the car arrived he pleaded with the operator to carry him straight through to the ground floor without stopping. "Not a word," replied the operator. "Not a word," replied the operator. "Not a word," replied the operator.

When the agitated person finally reached the street the coins had disappeared, and a woman and a wasp were the cause of it all.

It was this way.
In one of the offices on the fifteenth floor a lawyer who is known for his prowess as a bachelor as well as in the court room, nervously fingered a handful of silver coins as he talked to a young lady caller.

This was the woman's part in the affair. Her presence made the bachelor lawyer so nervous that in his agitation he thrust his hand in his pocket and drew out the silver which he shuffled in his hand as she talked.

Enter the wasp through the open window. Action immediate and disconcerting.
The wasp alighted on the lawyer's nose. A hasty swipe at the threatening insect and the handful of coins flew out of his hand. Through the open window went every one of them.

To the ears of the lawyer leaning out of the window floated for an instant the sound of a commotion far below, faint with distance.
Then all was still.
And it was a lady wasp at that.

For the information of those who picked up the silver the information is vouchsafed that the wasp-bitten lawyer was Hon. Newt E. Williams, member of the state legislature.

26 SURFACE WELLS ARE TO BE FILLED

CITY COMMISSION ORDERS CONTAMINATED WATER SOURCES DISCONTINUED AT ONCE.

MAJORITY ARE IN EAST WACO

Presence of Typhoid Germs Leads to Stringent Action as Protection to Health of City.

Under an ordinance passed at the recessed meeting of the city commission yesterday morning it is made a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than $100 for any person to allow a well of water containing bacillus colon, the organism which accompanies the germs of typhoid fever, to exist on his premises. Owners of such wells now existing in the city are ordered to fill them on notice from the board of health, and in case of refusal by the owner the chief of police is instructed to have the wells filled and the expense charged against the owner.

The action of the commission yesterday is the result of an investigation conducted by City Physician M. D. Baker and the city health board into reports that a number of typhoid cases in East Waco originated from an infected water supply. Fifty samples of water from wells in all parts of the city and from the city water main at various places were submitted to a bacteriological test by Dr. C. E. Collins, bacteriologist and pathologist of the Providence sanitarium, and Dr. E. D. Hodges.

The test disclosed that 28 wells, twenty-six of which were in East Waco, were contaminated with the bacillus colon germ. No contamination was found in the samples from the city water main.
Dr. Collins in his report to the city commission at its meeting last Thursday, stated that the presence of the bacillus colon alone does not necessarily mean that the water is infected with typhoid germs. The typhoid germ, he said, when present in water, is in such a state of dissolution that it is extremely difficult to isolate. A bacillus colon germ is not so such a easily isolated. The presence of the bacillus colon germ, he said, proves that the water is contaminated with the germ of typhoid fever. In case the contamination came from a person with typhoid, the typhoid germ would be present with the bacillus colon. On account of the fact that the bacillus colon germ is easily isolated and raises the possibility of typhoid contamination, it is called the pilot of the typhoid germ.

When Surface Wells Are Dangerous.
Where a neighborhood is supplied with water by surface wells, and the bacillus colon is present in the water, the danger of an epidemic which may result from a single case is great. Even if not present before in the water with the bacillus colon, there is the probability that waste matter from the intestines of the victim of the disease would reach the water by percolation from the surface. L. Collins stated that he had records which showed that one man suffering from the disease in Switzerland started an epidemic that resulted in more than 700 cases.

The following wells, water from which in the test by Dr. Collins developed an isolation of ten or more colonies bacilli to the cubic centimeter, will be filled under the order issued by the commission yesterday:
West Waco—820 Clay street, 809 Webster.

East Waco—J. C. Nevels, Kirkpatrick addition; Fourth street, back of church; Mr. Glassue, Kirkpatrick addition, 690 Rose street; 622 Rose street, 622 Rose street, 610 Rose street, 615 Hood street, 509 Hood street, 503 Hood street, 608 Hood street, 709 Hood street, 519 Rose street, 605 Rose street, 624 Rose street, 317 Preston street, 409 Preston street, 715 Pecan street, 705 Pecan street, 405 Spring street, 910 Cotton Belt street.

Cameron Park Lakes Infected.

In the test both the lakes in Cameron park were found to be contaminated with the colon bacilli. Dr. Collins was unable to isolate any of the colon bacilli in one cubic centimeter of water from the Cameron park springs. A further test will be made with a greater amount of water from the springs.
The count of bacteria in the fifty samples from wells examined ranged from 100 to 1,000 per cubic centimeter. In water supplies, any count above 100 is considered undesirable. The highest allowable count in water filtered by the city filtration plant is 100.

Eight Waco Births During September?

Physicians of City and County Are Ignoring Law Relating to Reporting Vital Statistics.

Waco and McLennan county physicians are apparently paying about as much attention to the state laws requiring the reporting of births and deaths as a German seige gun to the buzzing of a housefly. Thirty-eight births were reported to County Clerk John W. Baker for the month of September, and three deaths.

Speepleville led in the number of births reported, with nine; Waco was next, with eight; Leroy had four, China Springs four, Bosqueville three, McLennan county (rural) three, three, Mt. Calumet two, West two, Hewitt one, and Gholson one. Twenty-nine of the births reported were of white children, nine of negroes, and the score was exactly tied as to sex, there being nineteen boys and nineteen girls.

One death each was shown in Waco, Bosqueville and Hewitt, the causes being heart trouble, tuberculosis and typhoid fever.
Waco Lodge No. 92 A. F. and A. M. will confer the Fellowship Craft and Master's degrees tonight at 7:30 o'clock, Masonic Temple, 8th and Washington. A cordial invitation to visiting brethren.

The Four Pretty Models Illustrated have Just Come in and Will Be Shown for the First Time Today.

There's much that can be said about these Wirthmor Waists—but this one fact we want to emphasize, and that is that whenever you buy a Wirthmor Waist it's a model that's particularly appropriate for wear at that particular time. The very frequent arrivals of the new waists, just as soon as they are designed—insure always the newest, most wanted and most authentic styles; styles that really forecast the incoming mode.
